RECENT DEATHS.

Morgan.
Henry H. Morgan, one of the best known veterans soldiers of Manchester, N. H., died January 5. Mr. Morgan was born in Lyndon, and his age was 70 years, two months and nine days. He was a stencil cutter by trade and had worked as such for many years in New York before coming to New Hampshire about 14 years ago. He had been employed for a long time by the Star Stamp company and about a year ago started in business for himself.

Mr. Morgan's war service was in the First Vermont Heavy Artillery, a regiment originally recruited as an infantry command but transferred to the artillery branch of the service, and he was largely employed on detailed service at regimental and brigade headquarters and acted in quartermaster and in other capacities higher than the rank he attained, that of corporal.

During his residence in Manchester he had been active and helpful in various organizations. He was a member of the War veterans and at their last shoot made the highest score, in fact he never came back from one of those outings without bringing a prize. In the Vermont association of which he was long a member he was very helpful and there and in Amoskeag grange of which he was a member he was famous as the master of fine coffee at the entertainments having a special knack acquired in the trenches before Petersburg. Mr. Morgan was a charter member of Chamberlin Post No. 1, G. A. R. of St. Johnsbury. He is survived by a niece, Mrs. Mae F. Haviland of Newbury. The remains were brought to St. Johnsbury, Thursday.

Prevost.
The funeral of Wilfred, the four year old son of Mrs. Arthur Prevost, was held Tuesday afternoon at Notre Dame church, Rev. Fr. Dame officiating.

Lecture by Pres. Thomas.

President Thomas of Middlebury College gave a very interesting address on "The Spirit of Old Vermont," before the Round Table of the South church and invited guests, Monday evening. About 300 were in attendance and musical selections were given by W. B. Atwood and E. R. Mackey.

He said in part: Called to be pioneers beneath the mighty hills, our fathers were summoned to the interest in men to be and to achieve. Necessity of concerted action brought men together from all corners of the state, and their wits were sharpened and their spirits strengthened as they held converse together over their rights and the means of defending them. From the strife of the Revolutionary War there came forth the spirit of old Vermont, a new and distinctive spirit in American life liberty-loving in the extreme; careless of superficialities; deliberate in decision; droll in speech, never fooled twice in the same way, one of the most picturesque, and certainly not the least useful of typical American men. We are a little state, small in area and in population. Let it be our endeavor, loyal to Vermont as a whole, to lift the life of our entire people to an ever higher plane of intelligence, uprightness and moral probity.

In closing he said: "The canny wisdom, the quiet reserve, the prudent patience, the Millenium is yet distant, the generous willingness to bequeath at least a job or two to subsequent generations, the contentment to let it rain and let it blow once in a while if it wants to, the expectation to wade through mud in the spring of the year, knowing that the apple blossoms will come some time before August, the persistent grit that is sure of a crop next year, if not this, good hay if not good sugar, the devout faith that, if this is not the best possible of worlds, it at least is a fairly tolerable place for an honest man to live three score years and ten,—this spirit of our Vermont fathers abides in our mountains still, and as we fill our lungs with it in the clear, crisp mornings we face the future bravely and thank God for our Green Mountain heritage."

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Supreme Court Decision.

A decision was handed down this week by the Supreme Court in the case of George Caldwell vs. Charles E. Simanton. The action was brought to recover damages for an alleged false warranty in the sale of a diamond. The case was tried at the June Term 1907 and resulted in a verdict for plaintiff for $49 damages and costs. During the trial counsel for the defendant raised the question that the action was founded on a contract, and that by reason thereof the writ was void and the defendant illegally arrested. Mr. Simanton carried this question to the Supreme Court, and in the opinion rendered yesterday the contention of the defendant was sustained. The court held that Mr. Simanton was unlawfully arrested and rendered a judgment that the writ be dismissed and that the defendant recover his costs.

G. A. R. Notes.

The regular meeting of Chamberlin Post No. 1, G. A. R., on Saturday evening, will be in recognition of the anniversary of President McKinley's birthday, and they will hold exercises commemorative of that event.

As the 100th anniversary of President Lincoln's birth will be celebrated this year, and the national organization of the G. A. R. requests all patriotic organizations to co-operate with the citizens of the town in its observance, the local Post will hold a public meeting in Music Hall, when they expect to secure a speaker who will give one of the best addresses ever listened to here. There will also be a musical program, the schools of the town will take an active part, and once more will be demonstrated the fact that Chamberlin Post is a very active and enthusiastic organization. Chamberlin Post has received a valuable collection of army and other relics, which were left it by a charter member, Henry H. Morgan of Manchester, N. H., whose remains were recently brought to Lyndon Center for burial. The collection includes a flint lock musket, used at the battle of Plattsburgh, a wooden canteen used in the War of 1812, valuable papers taken from Confederate and Union soldiers, hospital records and relics from Libby prison in which he was incarcerated. Mr. Morgan was a member of Battery M, 1st Vermont artillery.
